University of Haifa-Graduate School of Management International Executive MBA - Cohort 6 (Ginger) Financial Statements Analysis - Period 3: Oct-Dec 2010 Dr. Amos Baranes PhD, CPA amos@DrBaranes.com Curse Objective: Financial Reporting and Statement Analysis is designed to prepare you to analyze, interpret and use financial statements effectively, both from a general manager and investor perspective. A central theme is "value creating opportunities. The course will review and extend some of the financial accounting topics introduced in Introduction to Accounting, the core course, and examine additional topics not covered in that course to achieve a value creation emphasis. The course will utilize a framework for financial statement analysis consisting of four key components, (1) business strategy analysis, (2) accounting analysis, (3) financial (ratio and cash flow) analysis. Primary emphasis will be placed on financial and prospective (forecasting and valuation) analysis. Primary emphasis will be placed on financial and prospective (forecasting and valuation) analysis. mature, and troubled businesses, among others. Cases will be used to develop hands-on experience in applying business analysis concepts. We, also, will go one extra mile; we will introduce the relatively new reporting format of financial information based on well developed format of transferring information over the internet - XBRL. This format not only brings a common taxonomy to accounting reporting but also provides the framework to use search engines to find and process financial information. Useful Advice: The most effective means for developing the interpretative and assessment skills is working through the numbers on your own. This takes time and effort. This is a course where you will get out of it what you put into it. You need to get to the point where you can explain and interpret data effectively and efficiently on your own. Course Content: Sources of Information: Financial Statement of cash flow). Directors' Report. Auditor's Report. Prospective. Public announcements.
